It Goes Without Saying

The human spirit and its ability to recover sailed disturbed waters throughout much of the past century. It landed shaken but safely after countless journeys through uncertainty. The harbor of a new millennium appeared secure; anchors dropped. But an earthquake rocked the moorings.

Students, faculty, administration, and support personnel on this campus entered the fall session facing reductions in practically everything except enrollment and workload. Budget cuts presented the possibility of disruption. There were anxious moments. But in the classrooms, the offices, the auditoriums, on the grounds, the sidewalks, the playing fields, smiles were abundant. Disruption, if it came, was mild, and everyone went about doing the jobs assigned. The human spirit, housed in its diverse containers, moved forward; it even flourished.

Then while the school year was still young, a more severe and crushing storm developed. The country was attacked; there was war or the very real threat of war on American soil. The human spirit was once again called upon, and it produced resolve in the face of grief.

Those who are living the experience, which is yet fresh, have a limited view. Those who read these words in future years have history to complete the story. While it is only that history which will eventually chart the events and reactions and outcomes, it is certain that a resiliency of the human spirit will have prevailed.

In his 1950 acceptance speech for the Nobel Prize, William Faulkner said, "I decline to accept the end of man ... I believe that man will not merely endure; he will prevail. He is immortal, not because he alone among creatures has an inexhaustible voice, but because he has a soul, a spirit capable of compassion and sacrifice and endurance."

Faulkner, it is safe to assume, meant not man simply in the masculine, but all humans. And he would likely have echoed the concept of humanity's resilience. This - recovery from the tragic and resolve to seek progress - marks the spirit of the country's citizens, as well as this institution's peoples. All have risen to the occasion of doing what must be done within the confines of circumstance.

The Twentieth Century catapulted a nation, a society, and if taken more locally and specifically, East Central Community College into a new era. And that resiliency of the human spirit is proving adequate once again. It remains a driving force behind meeting new challenges. It serves as a beacon when skies are dark.

So, is resiliency of the human spirit one factor that goes without saying? The answer lies within the individual. But even if it does go without saying, it is something that is and should be often recalled.

Are you sure about that?

Whoever thought college could be this much fun?

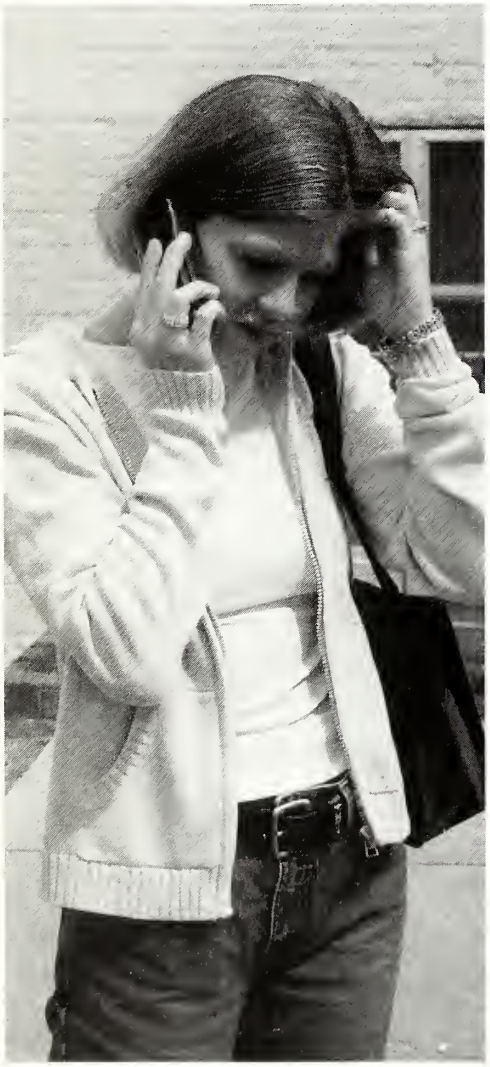
"No, Mr. Carson, I can't have band ALL day!

It's A Cellular World!

Stepping into an oncoming school year with books in hand and a cellular phone in the other, East Central Warrior students are ready for class. Today's style is definitely equipped with the latest colorful cellular phones and a smile. According to the National Press Release Survey of college students, fifty percent of all students own cellular phones. Fortunately, those who do not own a cell phone more than likely have a roommate who does. The number one reason for having a cellular phone is surrounded by the idea of obtaining an unlimited social life. From calling friends to keeping time, cellular phones have proven themselves to be unbelievably convenient.

The majority of East Central's students own cellular phones, and Nokia cell phones are the most common. The designer covers mark the styles of each owner. The covers range from gold tones, sea spray blues, hyper greens, shark silvers, Antigua reds to an outstanding possibility of personalized designs. The cellular phones of this era are not complete unless they are equipped with a phone clip and headset kit. Many more features for the newest devices cannot only be seen, but also heard on East Central's campus.

Various ringing tones are available with these stylish cellular phones. Such tones are "City Bird," the famous "Auld Lang Syne," "Fuga," and "Minuet," to name just a few. Even though cellular phones have a silent mode, the occasional student may forget to turn the sound off. Luckily, East Central's students are careful of this. The widespread use of cellular phones continues to grow on the East Central campus. Students seem to love stylish devices that bring attention. This all proves that it is indeed a cellular world!



No, I don't understand.

Spring Spree

Hop to it, Missy!

Go faster, Jennifer Leigh!

Let's do this right!

Blow it just a little harder, Whitney!

Now what were you thinking?

Hold on, you're almost through!

Red ... just like the balloon.

Ty, wait for me!

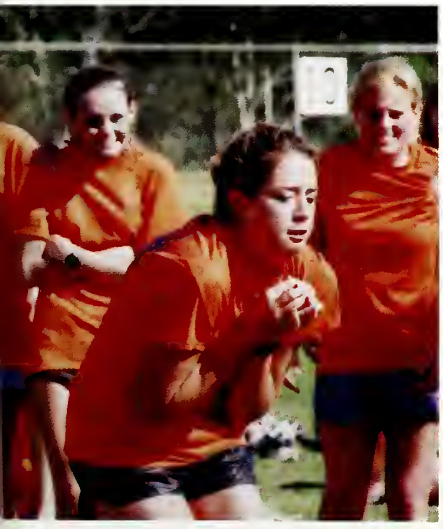
Keep it steady, Sam!

Everybody go this way!

Jeff, hold on tight!

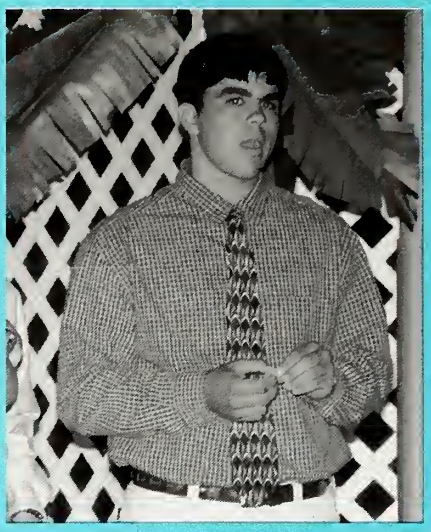


Don't drop it, Erica!

Smile and take a break!

Looks real tasty, Marcus!

Smile Andy!



Now, where am I?

I sure am nervous!

Hurry with the picture already!

Yeah, I got all the moves.

Everybody clap your hands!

I am the MAN!

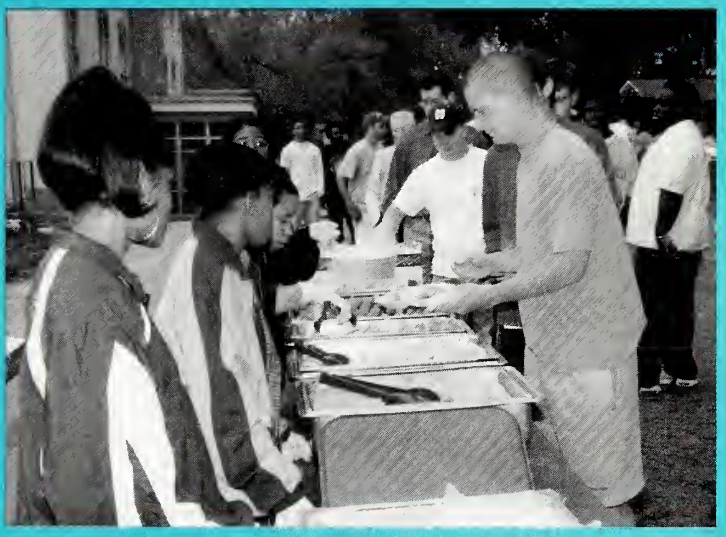
Oh yeah, this is so much fun!

When is this gonna be over?

This stuff sure is good!

Come on, can't I have just a little more?

Is that good, Andy?



Get out of the way, Corey!

There's nothing like cafeteria food.

Take that plate back right now!

Whoa, that's a lot of food!

Mr. ECCC

Mr. East Central Community College for 2001-2002 is James Denson. James is a member of the men's Warrior Basketball Team where he has received various awards including the 'Rebound Award' and 'Best Offense Award'. He is also a member of Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges and the Dean's List. James' goals in life include to one day have a degree in physical therapy and to fulfill his dream of helping people in this area of work. His philosophy in life is "I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me" (Phil. 4:13). Through Christ, James believes that he can overcome all adversities because without Him, he is nothing.

East Central Elite and Drum Line Tour 2001

The East Central Drum Line, under the direction of Mr. Jared Brownlee, toured throughout area high schools in the East Central five-county district. This tour consisted of various styles of music composed by Mr. Brownlee, with additional compositions. Also on the tour, was the East Central Elite/Winter Guard. The Elite group was selected members of the marching band's color guard. The winter guard performed, under the direction of Ricardo Robinson, to King Conga's "Halo."

Students In Free Enterprise

Students In Free Enterprise is just one of the successful clubs on the East Central Community College campus. The organization is based upon the vision of helping people achieve their dreams through free enterprise education. Their mission is to provide college students with the best opportunity to make a difference and to develop leadership, teamwork and communication skills through learning, practicing and teaching the principles of free enterprise. Through these philosophies and motivations, the ECCC SIFE found the path for their success. A team of students attended the Birmingham, Alabama, regional competition. There they presented a twenty minute power point presentation about the tasks that were completed during the 2000-2001 school year. Once the presentation was concluded, a panel of 15 judges had ten minutes to ask various questions pertaining to the presentation. The students answered all questions with confidence and success. With an exceptional presentation to accompany the reports, the students caught the eyes of the panel, representing ECCC extremely well. The ECCC team was awarded the Regional Championship with first place in the Regional Competition for Students In Free Enterprise. The competition's success led the team to Kansas City, Missouri. With the help of the club's sponsor, Mrs. Wanda Moore, the team competed against both universities and other community colleges. ECCC's SIFE looks forward to achieving even more goals of higher degrees. Good Luck SIFE.

ECCC

Habitat

Dr. Bettye Sue Hennington

ECCC is fortunate to have a new addition on campus. This addition is the ECCC Wildlife Habitat, a pleasant, attractive structure located outside Cross Hall. WO-HE-LO staff members interviewed Dr. Bettye Sue Hennington, an integral force in the planning and implementation of the project. Following are her comments: The biology students needed a way to learn ecology while doing ecological studies. The west-end front campus is the Cross Hall science building area and had only a few plants growing and virtually no wildlife. Developing some type of habitat in the area south of Cross Hall for the biology students to use seemed like a good match between students and the environment.

I sincerely believe the majority of the students truly enjoyed being involved in the development of the habitat. We have already had ECCC alumni from 2000 come back and bring family members to show them what the biology classes had done. I know each student has learned something about gardening and building soil because they did all the work themselves. The hard structures in the garden (raised beds, arbor, trellis, etc.) were all built by students also. These students come by often to check on the structures and to check on the progress that is being made.

Initially, we had to find money. We wrote a grant to Entergy and were funded. Much of our money now comes from a service learning grant written by Mary Hanson of the Learning Skills Center. ECCC was able to incorporate the already-growing habitat into a service learning project because the students are actually doing a service for ECCC, for the community, and for the city. The students have been writing essays, producing photographic history, designing notecards and business logos for the habitat, and will continue to reflect on the work being done in the habitat as part of their service learning.

The ECCC physical plant has contributed extra materials such as bricks, concrete, and lumber for the habitat. A heavy equipment company donated the 6-8,000 pound boulders and a friend of the college along with the National Guard actually hauled the boulders and placed them on the campus. Many faculty, staff, friends, and students have added to the plantings in the habitat by bringing cuttings, perennial divisions, and bulbs from home.

Using the idea of a butterfly garden as part of the habitat made it easier to decide what native and exotic plants to include in the plantings. We have a list from Mississippi State University, and one of our ECCC students (a botany major) got with his dad to make lists of perennials and shrubs to plant to attract butterflies. Once you begin to attract butterflies, many other types of insects come in. Then the larger animals such as frogs, lizards, and birds can come in and eat the insects. We are hoping to build on our food web as we go.

I am excited abut this project because it has grown way beyond the small ideas I started with into a campus-wide and citywide and countywide project. We also attracted garden clubs, and one Newton 4-H group has just submitted a proposal for building a vinery. We are working on the scouts next. The cooperative projects that are growing out of this habitat are truly wonderful. I see the habitat as being a type of stone soup story. People are bringing ideas and working those ideas into our habitat.

The science staff would like to sincerely thank the administration for allowing all these changes to occur. Our administrators have given strong financial, technical, and emotional support. The help from the physical plant supervisor and his staff has been invaluable. I send big kudos to all faculty, staff, students, and friends who have contributed time, money, plants, and support. It is truly a pleasure to see these people using the seating area of the habitat as it grows.

Building the habitat has certainly taken personal time and personal money. Right now the science staff is working a plan to keep the habitat perpetually growing. As long as we have students and money, we will continue the habitat. The entire project is great for science and for ECCC.

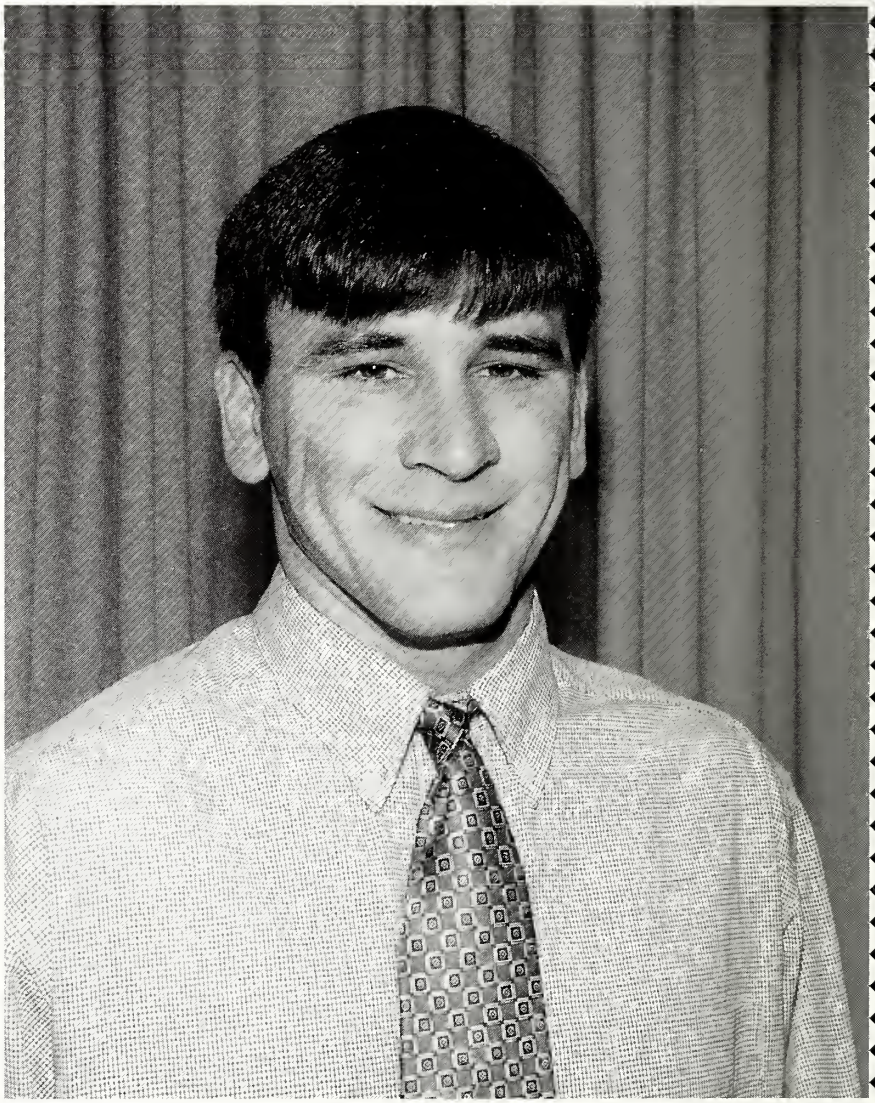
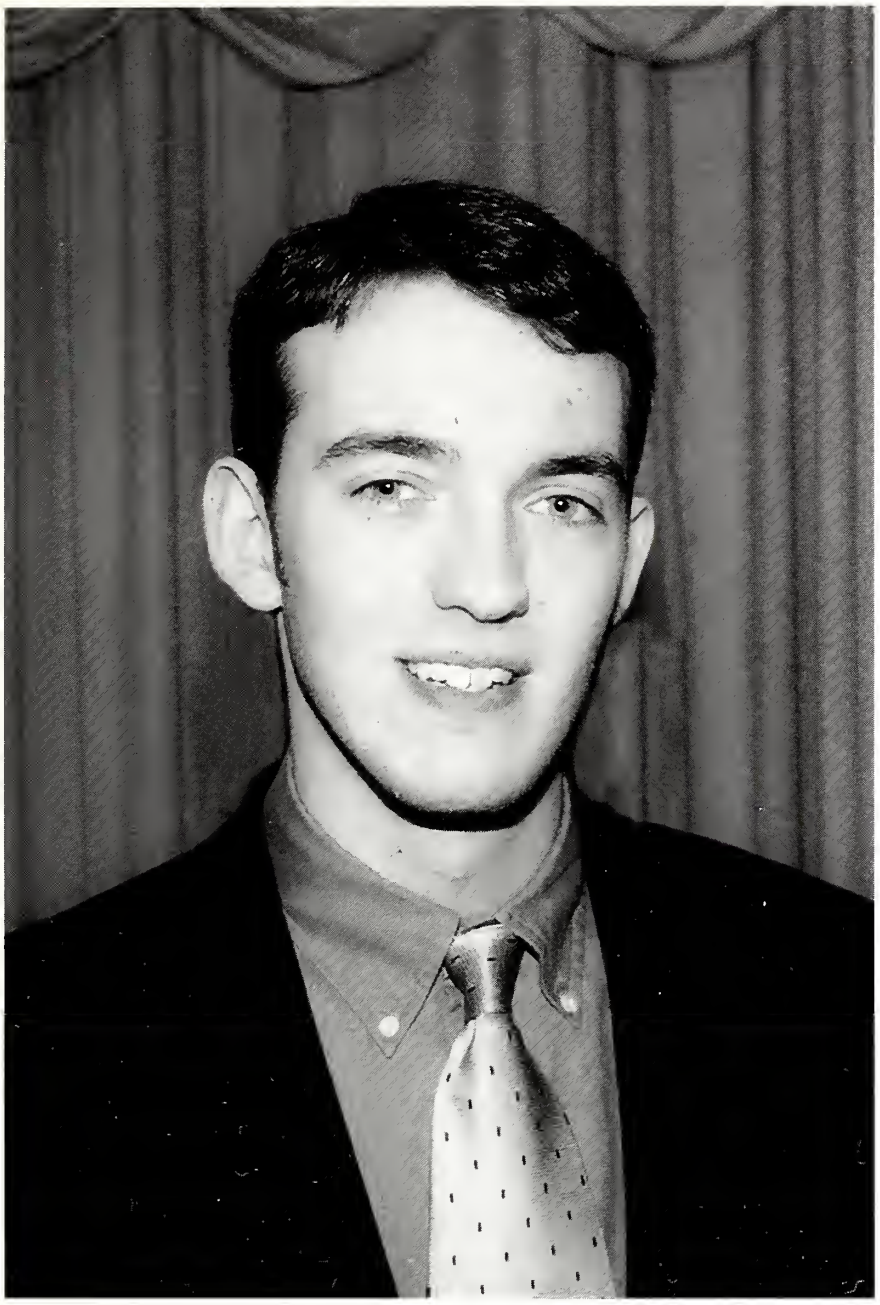
Hall of Fame

Josh Chaney



Josh Chaney is an elementary education major at East Central. He has maintained a high GPA while being involved in many campus activities. Josh is a member of Phi Theta Kappa, the Baptist Student Union, the Warrior Football Team, and the Warrior Baseball Team. Various honors include: the Warrior Award in Football, Honorable Mention All-State in Football, Academic Award in Football, President's List Scholar, Dean's List Scholar, and selection to Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges. With all the pressure and time that college athletics required of him, he still maintained an excellent GPA. One instructor states, "Josh is a young man with high moral standards, a tireless work ethic, and impeccable character." Another instructor states, "Josh is one of the most conscientious students I have ever been associated with. Whatever the task, Josh gets it done on time. He has excelled in the classroom and on the athletic fields and is an example of what every student athlete should strive to be."



Matt Davis

Matt Davis is an outstanding goal-driven young man. He has been actively involved in numerous campus organizations. He is a 4.0 GPA engineering major who contributes his talents by serving others. Matt is a member of Phi Theta Kappa, Warrior Corps, Presidents Council, Alpha Alpha Epsilon, Mu Alpha Theta, Wall O' Sound Marching Band, Concert Band, and the Jazz Band. Numerous awards and honors include: vice president for service for Phi Theta Kappa, president of Alpha Alpha Epsilon, reporter for Mu Alpha Theta, HEADWAE Student of the Year, Freshman Chemistry Award, L.B. Simmons History Award, Danny R. Killen Phi Theta Kappa Award, Scholars Bowl Team, Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges, and President's List Scholar. Matt is a Phi Theta Kappa All-USA Academic Team nominee. One instructor states, "Matt is an outstanding student who is a natural leader in the classroom and in all extra-curricular activities in which he is involved. His academic record is excellent, but beyond that Matt motivates his peers to set and meet high goals. As his instructor, I have observed Matt's tireless effort to succeed, and also to help his fellow students succeed. He is the kind of young man who will make a positive contribution to society in the future." Another instructor states, "Matt Davis has been an exemplary contributing member of Phi Theta Kappa at the local, regional, and international levels. He represents Theta Xi Chapter well in all of his worthwhile activities and will likewise represent EC well as a member of the 2002 ECCC Hall of Fame."

Jessica Eakes

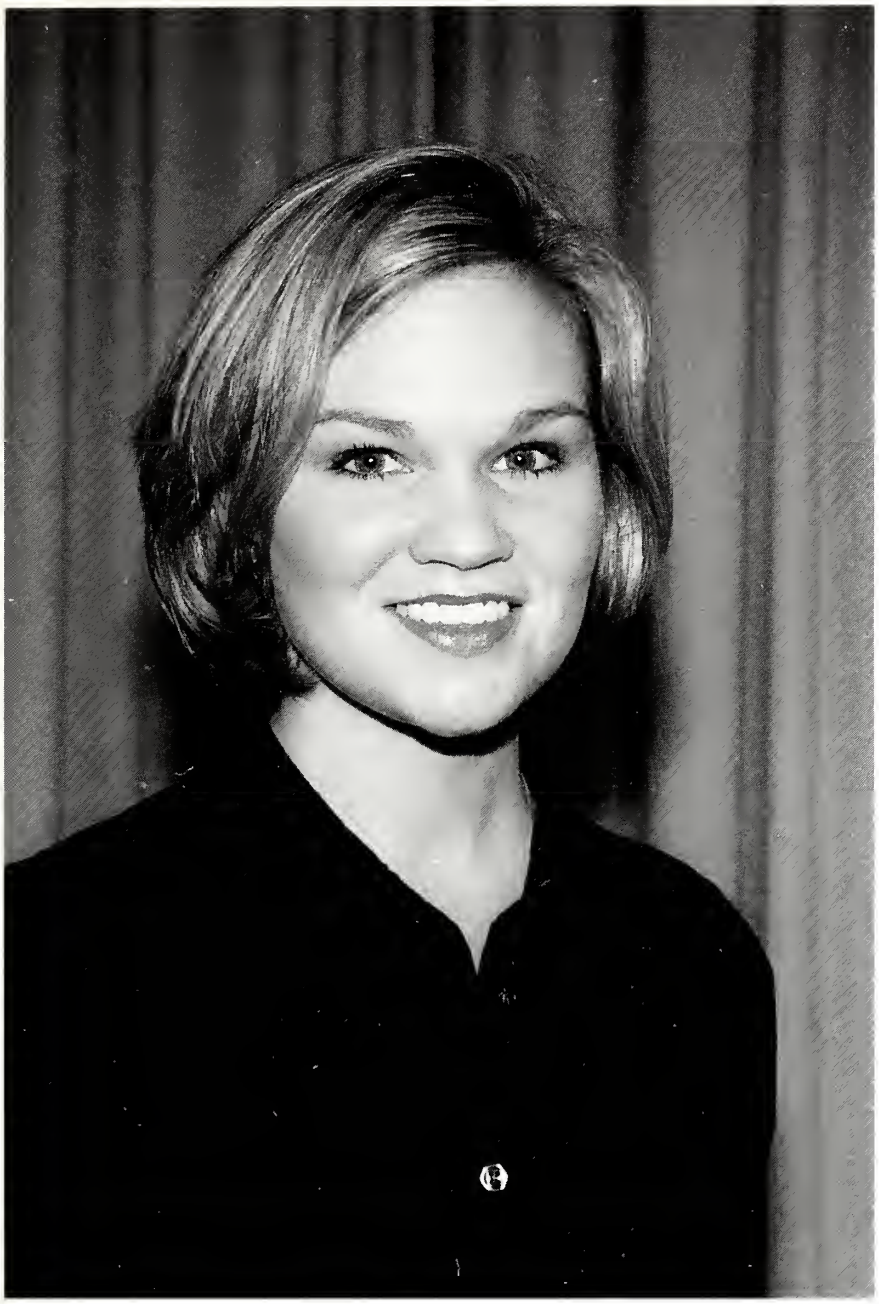
Jessica Eakes is a 4.0 GPA liberal arts major who sets goals and does whatever it takes to achieve those goals. She is a member of Phi Theta Kappa, Warrior Corps, Students in Free Enterprise, Ac'cents, Diamond Girls, Presidents Council, and EC Choir. Numerous awards and honors include: vice president for fellowship for Phi Theta Kappa, vice president of Warrior Corps, assistant editor for the WO-HE-LO, sophomore class president, Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges, National Dean's List Scholar, and President's List Scholar. One instructor states, "I had the pleasure of working with Jessica and her family in a church setting when Jessica was quite young. Even then she proved to be dependable, with great initiative. I taught her in high school and had the opportunity to observe her in a wide variety of roles and positions. She excelled in all. Jessica is now my student at ECCC and is assistant editor of the yearbook. When I need a job done thoroughly and on time, I assign it to Jessica! Clearly, she is the most focused and diligent student of my teaching career." Another instructor states, "Jessica is probably one of the most intelligent students I have had the pleasure of teaching. I have taught her four semesters and she has proven to be an excellent student. She is dedicated to East Central and very supportive in its activities. She is truly a leader and deserves this high honor."

Megan Morrison

Megan Morrison is a liberal arts major who has participated in extracurricular activities and at the same time maintained an excellent academic record. She is a member of Phi Theta Kappa, the Presidents Council, Warrior Corps, and ECCC Players. Throughout her two years, Megan has won many awards and honors: president of ECCC Players, vice president of ECCC Players, Best Actress in a Drama Award, Best Show Spirit Award, 1st place winner in the 2001 Poetry Festival sponsored by the Mississippi Poetry Society, Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges, Honors Program, Dean's List Scholar, and Outstanding Humanities Student for 2000-01. She also had the lead roles in two dinner theaters and supporting roles in two musical productions. One instructor states, "In my Honors English class, Megan stood out as one of the most creative and mature writers that I have had the privilege of teaching. Because of her interest in literature and writing, she was selected to attend the Natchez Literary Celebration as East Central's most outstanding humanities student. Megan Morrison is a versatile, talented student who is very deserving of this honor and who should be recognized as one of East Central's brightest and best." Another instructor states, "Megan Morrison is the most outstanding student that I have taught at East Central. She is intellectually curious, creative, and highly motivated. Even when she is very busy with drama productions, she never slacks up. She has a clear understanding of what she wants to do in life and she accepts the responsibilities that her choices entail. Megan is an achiever. She will bring honor to herself and to the institution."

Andy Murphy

Andy Murphy, a music major, is a very dedicated and active supporter of East Central. He works very hard at whatever he does. From the moment he arrived at ECCC he became involved in various clubs and organizations. He is a member of the Concert Choir, Presidents Council, Baptist Student Union, Wall O' Sound Marching Band, Concert Band, Jazz Band, Percussion Ensemble, Collegians, and serves as narrator for the Ac'cents. Andy is very actively involved with the Baptist Student Union, serving on both the BSU Council and the BSU Drama Team as well as participating in two mission trips. Various honors and awards include: Student Body Association president, Sophomore Class president, vice president for the Concert Choir, Class Favorite, President's List Scholar, Dean's List Scholar, Eubanks Leadership Award, 1st Chair Concert Band, Drum Captain, and Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges. One nominator states, "Andy's leadership qualities and his willingness to promote ECCC has certainly been a positive influence on many ECCC prospects. Although he is heavily involved in many activities on campus, Andy has maintained the high grades expected of the ECCC 'Elite'. I have no doubt that Andy will continue to be a great 'ECCC Promoter' even after he moves on."



Lana Rogers

Lana Rogers is a 4.0 GPA music education major. A leader and exemplary student, she is an inspiration to her fellow students. Lana has maintained excellent grades while participating in numerous campus activities. During her two years at ECCC Lana has been a member of Phi Theta Kappa, the Presidents Council, Warrior Corps, Concert Band, Diamond Girls, and the Baptist Student Union. As a member of Phi Theta Kappa, Lana has been an exemplary contributing member to her Chapter, the Region, the Community, and to Phi Theta Kappa internationally. Numerous honors and awards include Phi Theta Kappa MS/LA Regional Secretary, MS/LA Phi Theta Kappa Order of the Golden Key, President's List Scholar, Warrior Corps president, Concert Choir president, vice president of the Presidents Council, Jack B. Mayo Phi Theta Kappa Award for Academic Excellence, Ann H. Burkes Phi Theta Kappa Scholarship for Leadership, Who's Who Among students in American Junior Colleges, Freshman Class Favorite, and ECCC Player's Award for Best Play Spirit for Seven Brides for Seven Brothers. Lana is a Phi Theta Kappa All-USA Academic Team nominee. She also volunteers for the Mississippi Reads Program. One instructor states, "Lana is an inspiration to her fellow students. She never misses class and is always prepared." Another instructor states, "In family settings, in church, in school, in pleasant and difficult times, Lana has always been the encourager, the one with a smile. She has distinguished herself as a worthy student at ECCC as well. Kind, gentle, and dedicated, Lana brightens the lives of those she touches."

Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges

These East Central Community College students have been selected as national outstanding campus leaders and will be recognized in the 2001 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Junior and Community Colleges. Dr. Phil Sutphin, President

Your time spent at East Central Community Colelge will be a significant part of your memories for years to come. This copy of the Wo-He-lo will be a treasure that you will look at many times. And each time that you look through its pages you will recall events from your past.

This year has been full of events. September 11, 2001, will be perhaps the most significant and the most lasting. As we enter a new millennium our lives will be forever changed by the events of that day. Our parents and grandparents were affected by the depression and by Pearl Harbor. Nine-eleven will be our memory.

On a much brighter note, each of you will have more pleasant memories of East Central. This will include the many friends that you made here, all the events that you participated in, and that special instructor who encouraged you to excel. But most of all, you will remember East Central as a milestone marking an episode in your life that had a profound influence on the person you are.

Having taken classes at East Central and having received your copy of the Wo-He-Lo, you are, and forever will be, alumni of East Central Community College.

2000-2001 Region State Champion!

East Central Community College's Lady Warriors celebrate following their stunning 91-71 win over Northwest Mississippi Community College for the Region 23 championship. The East Central women advanced to the title game by earlier defeating Copiah-Lincoln 74-71 and Jones County 93-78 during the annual competition held at Mississippi College. The Lady Warriors advanced to the NJCAA Women's Basketball Tournament in Salina, Kansas, where they fell 74-73 in first-round action to eventual national champion Cloud County, Kansas. East Central was eliminated from further tournament action by central Arizona College 102-61. East Central completed season action with a 22-7 record. The Lady Warriors are Coached by Sammy Pace (head) and Brad Hodge (assistant).

The best of the best.

International Students

From Liberia, West Africa, 20-year-old Seltue Karweaye is a nursing major. He is a forward on the soccer team and was one of the leading scorers for the fall season. He says his dream is to lead the soccer team to the championship. He chose to come to East Central after it was recommended for its atmosphere and for the fact that it seemed interesting. "I like EC, but I do miss my country and family. At least the people here are friendly," says Seltue. His brother Bestmean will be joining him next year.

Aparna Goswami, is a 20-year-old pharmacy major from Baroda City, Gujarat State, India. She says she chose East Central to be closer to her uncle that lives in Newton, MS. "Everyone here is so kind and friendly," says Aparna.

Also from Baroda City, India, is Vimukti Goswami. She is the 18-year-old sister of Aparna. She is also a pharmacy major. "Everyone at East Central is so helpful and really nice." says Vimukti. Aparna and Vimukti's Aunt Dipti is also a part-time student at East Central.

The Soul of Music

Like many colleges across the nation, East Central's music program exceeds ordinary recognition. Leaders of such a program include people with uncommon musical talents. East Central's Tom Carson especially fits in the cream of the crop.

Carson has received countless awards, including the College's Arts and Humanities Teacher of the Year for 2001 award. He was also featured in an October 2001 issue of The Tom Tom, a student publication of East Central Community College, concerning this prestigious award. "I was pleasantly surprised to receive the College's Arts and Humanities Teacher of the Year for 2001 award. My basic philosophy is to do everything in my power to involve my students with as many musical areas as possible. If they leave here with a greater love for music, I have done my job," Carson said.

Being director of bands at East Central Community College is only one of many roles Carson plays. For twenty years he has led the Wall O'Sound Marching Band, and served as director of the Collegians, the college's vocal-instrumental pop group. Carson is a well known music lover. His devotion to music has indeed shown up in his leadership. The October 2001 issue of The Tom Tom states that the Wall O'Sound Band was among the top marching bands in its category, according to a poll conducted by The Clarion-Ledger newspaper in 1998.

East Central's fine arts program is open to all who appreciate it. Carson happily states, "The last twenty years have gone by so quickly, and all my band members, past and present, have made my job so rewarding, I guess I will drag along another twenty years!" From singing in the Warrior Concert Choir and performing in the annual musical, to marching in the prestigious Wall O'Sound Marching Band, there is a place for everyone.

It goes without saying that this was a challenging year for the Wo-He-Lo. With an entirely new staff and a new advisor, we began the school year much like America - in the shadow of the unknown. However, no one ever let his or her focus turn away from the light of hope.

Now, as the year comes to an end, we can look back and say that we have worked extremely hard and entered triumphantly into a bright new day. The Wo-He-Lo has a new attitude. Our staff enjoyed an exciting year that presented us with many difficult challenges. We are proud to say that we accomplished our goals with flying colors.

We would like to give special thanks to our new advisor, Tony Kinton. He encouraged our creativity and challenged us to do our very best. Although starting out with no previous experience, he proved to be worthy and extremely good at his new position. Special thanks also goes to the personnel of the Public Relations department for their tremendous help with photographs, and to the Communication Department for accommodating all of our publishing needs.

We hope that you will enjoy looking through this annual as much as we enjoyed making it. East Central Community College has been a major part of our lives. The memories made here will never be forgotten. Of course, that "Goes Without Saying."

East Central Community College is accredited by the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (1866 Southern Lane, Decatur, Georgia 20033-4097; telephone number 404-679-4501) to award the Associate Degree. East Central Community College does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, age, or handicap. The College is in compliance with the Title VI of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, Title IX of the 1972 Educational Amendments, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, and the American Disabilities Act of 1990.

This has been a long and hard year for the annual staff. There was only one person that had ever worked on an annual staff before. Everyone put in long hard hours. We all worked together to make the WO-HE-LO. It was not easy for us because we had a change in our advisor. He worked hard to help us put it all together. We could not have done it without him. We all thank him for everything that he has done.
